Dies In France

Lieut. Wise

Lieut. Stuart Wise, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Wise of Fifth ave., Youngstown, formerly of Salem, was killed in action in Normandy June 14. A graduate of Salem High school, the young officer had been in service nearly two years and had served overseas since October 1943, with the engineer corps.

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

WHEN YOU STEP BACK from close analysis of every move in our global war and view it broadly—as I've been doing for the past fortnight—it can't fail to inspire profound confidence that Allied efforts prosper exceedingly.

One may legitimately go further and, in answer to the common query of whether the European conflict is nearing its end, say that Herr Hitler is indeed on his last mile, and his knees are knocking. However, we must follow this with the caution that the greatest tragedy which could come out of this war would be for the Allied home fronts to slacken in their efforts at this crucial moment on the theory that the battle is won.

It won't be won until the Fuehrer is out, cold, and the amount of striking power which we must expend to achieve this expeditiously will far exceed anything we've used thus far. The greater and the faster the action, the greater the consumption of material. And after Hitler comes Tojo.

The Nazi dictator's weakness has become more apparent now that we have him battling on three land fronts—east, south and west. He hasn't either the reserves in manpower or the equipment with which to meet the onslaught but is depending, as he said at the weekend, on "rational fanaticism" to pull him through. And no wonder, for history has recorded nothing to equal the magnitude of either the great Russian offensive or the Allied amphibious invasion of Normandy. Each of these operations is supreme in its class.

Three weeks ago Stalin in a tribute to the assault on western Europe declared that "the history of

SIENA TAKEN BY 5TH ARMY AFTER WEEK

Occupy Medieval Metropolis Near Florence In Tough Battle

(By Associated Press)
ROME, July 3.—French troops and American artillery and tank forces occupied the medieval metropolis of Siena 31 miles below Florence today after more than a week of heavy fighting through tough German defenses.

The occupation touched off a wild demonstration by the population of 50,000 which cheered and applauded and paraded its famous silk flags for the first time in four years in a belated impromptu celebration of the ancient "Palio Delle Contrade."

The city, whose art treasures are rivalled only by those of Florence, was virtually untouched by war damage except for a few small bombs dropped in the last several nights and demolitions of public utilities carried out by the Germans.

Dispatches said three bombs landed within 30 yards of the city's beautiful black and white marble cathedral, tearing up paving blocks in the Piazza Del Duomo.

Fall of the city coincided with a rapid advance by the Eighth army west of Lake Trasimeno in the center and gains up the Adriatic coast which brought the fall of Osimo only nine miles from Ancona.

A few hours earlier Americans on the Italian west coast crushed German resistance at Cecina, after the most vicious fighting since the fall of Rome.

"Exceptionally heavy street fighting occurred which caused us, as well as the enemy, considerable casualties, and we lost a number of armored vehicles in the engagement," an Allied spokesman said.

German prisoners reported they were ordered to hold Cecina at all costs, and there were indications the Germans intended to make the Cecina river some sort of defense line, but they were thwarted when the Americans forged across the stream on a wide front.

The enemy was reported throwing more reinforcements into the fighting, with elements of 10 divisions facing the Fifth army.

30-Minute Truce Called In France For Nurses' Safety

By DON WHITEHEAD
WITH AMERICAN FORCES AT BALLEROY, France, July 3.—For 30 minutes yesterday the guns stopped roaring, snipers held their fire and the mortars were silent as one of the strangest battlefield scenes in all the invasion of France was enacted in No-Man's Land near here.

During the strange interlude eight German nurses captured in Cherbourg were returned to the enemy lines.

Allies Formally Present Cherbourg To French

In a formal ceremony with American, British and French flags flying, Maj. Gen. Lawton Collins handed back the liberated town of Cherbourg to the French city's mayor, M. Paul Reynaud. The scene pictured above was enacted outside the town hall following the entrance of the Allies. (International Soundphoto.)

DEWEY PLANS LATE CAMPAIGN

Republican Presidential Candidate Withholds Personal Efforts Now

ALBANY, July 3.—The Republican put the accent today on organization rather than oratory, with indications that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will withhold major personal efforts in the presidential race for an intensive late-September and October drive.

The New York governor was back at work in his office today, picking up the reins of state government where he dropped them last Wednesday to fly to the GOP convention in Chicago and accept the presidential nomination.

He scheduled a press conference during the morning to announce plans for the week. His only public activity yesterday was to attend church.

While the nominee may make a speech or two before fall, one of Dewey's strategists told this reporter every possible step would be taken to avoid starting too early a campaign that may change complexion rapidly with the shifting course of the war.

The Dewey planners have taken a leaf from the book of Wendell L. Wilkie's 1940 campaign and reversed it. They believe Wilkie started too soon after the nomination, talked himself out long before the election.

Already in this campaign, Republicans have been quoting some of the bitterly critical things President Roosevelt said about Russia when it signed the non-aggression pact with Germany and contrasting those with later friendly statements about the Soviets after they were attacked by the Nazis.

In the meantime, however, his strategists hope to perfect an organization reaching down into the precincts. J. Russell Sprague, New York national committeeman, is a great believer in organization work and Herbert Brownell, Jr., the new Republican national chairman, sides with him.

It was learned that Dewey's strategists had decided to call upon Republican governors for extensive aid in the presidential campaign.

Dewey and Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, the vice presidential candidate, may meet with the other GOP governors in about a month.

Nazi Troops Seek To Halt Underground Resistance

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, July 3.—German troops were reported today to be pressing a large scale drive in southwestern France in an effort to smash underground resistance, described by one French collaborationist source as "a real civil war directed from abroad."

At the same time, reports from Stockholm indicated the Germans were making desperate efforts to placate striking Danish patriots who had barricaded themselves in the streets of Copenhagen and threatened to fight to the death in protest against repressive measures.

Danish patriots continued their general strike in Copenhagen despite an appeal by the German-controlled Danish radio for a return to work. The Free Danish press service said today, Stockholm dispatches said.

Reports through underground channels said the Germans had closed in last night on a Danish student house near the University of Copenhagen and arrested several score students.

The Danish liberty council was said to be spreading word to the patriots to continue the strike until the Danish Nazi "Schulburg corps" is removed from the country. German orders lifting a state of siege in Copenhagen and restoring utilities was said to have had no effect on the situation.

Many Prisoners Escape
A new and disturbing situation, meanwhile, was rising to plague the Germans at home where—according to dispatches from Madrid—some 50,000 foreign prisoners have escaped since the Allied invasion of France are causing deep concern by their activities.

LEETONIA SOLDIER DROWNS IN FLORIDA

Military service will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Woods funeral home in Leetonia for Sgt. Donald Dean Falls, 31, who drowned at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday at Perry Army air field, Fla.

Details of the accident are not known. The body was recovered at 6 p. m. Friday.

Sgt. Falls was born June 11, 1913, in Kent, Pa., the son of William and Nora Anderson Falls. His mother died in April and his father six years ago. He graduated from Leetonia High school in 1932 and entered the service in September, 1942. He was a member of the Presbyterian church.

NEW PACIFIC ISLAND IS HIT BY U. S. BOMBS

Noemfoor, Off N. Guinea, Blasted; Saipan Battle Progresses Slowly

(By Associated Press)
Gen. MacArthur's sector of the Pacific war stirred to new life and significance today with a three-day blow against Noemfoor island, possibly indicative of a new Allied jump toward the Philippines.

While the still-undecided battles for Saipan and Hengyang mounted in bitterness, the 15-by-12-mile island lying in New Guinea's Geelvink bay caught two weekend bombings and a P-T boat shelling.

MacArthur's headquarters reported the second raid brought 150 aircraft with a 230-ton bomb load over Noemfoor's three airdromes Saturday. The unusual weight of the attack suggested MacArthur could be preparing to leap 50 miles from Biak island to Noemfoor. Or he could be clearing the way for a jump farther west to New Guinea's northwest tip. Noemfoor is 800 miles from the Philippines, 600 from Palau.

Advances Slowly
Elements of two Marine and one infantry division narrowed to approximately 25 square miles the pocket into which Japanese on Saipan are being pushed. The Americans advanced from 500 yards to a mile along the front. On the east coast they were five and a half miles from the island's northern tip, which may become a Japanese bastion.

The bitter fighting in the forests and cave-pocked mountains already has cost the Japanese at least 6,015 killed and much cached war material.

The town of Garapan, scene of hard street fighting, came under heavy fire from artillery, naval guns and mortars. One correspondent pictured it as a mass of flame.

The Americans apparently were ready to wipe it off the map to get at the Japanese who had made it a fortress.

Hengyang, a fire and shuddering under the bombings of two enemy air forces, remained partially in Chinese hands. The key Hunan railroad city, vital to Japan's drive to cleave China along the Hankow-Canton rail line, virtually was cut off from aid, Chungking reports indicated.

Late Bulletins

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, July 3.—American troops attacking south down Cherbourg peninsula have captured St. Jovès, five miles south of St. Sauveur Le Vicomte.

CHUNGKING, July 3.—Japanese troops which by-passed the encircled rail junction of Hengyang have thrust a spearhead 46 miles below the city in their drive to capture the entire Canton-Hankow railway route, the Chinese high command indicated tonight.

LONDON, July 3.—From 500 to 750 Flying Fortresses and Liberators, including Eighth air force units which flew from England in a shuttle flight, bombed Nazi oil storages and refineries and transportation facilities in Rumania, Hungary and Yugoslavia today.

THREE ARE NABBED ON SPEEDING COUNTS

State patrolmen made three arrests for speeding on Route 14, north of Salem, yesterday morning. Two Pittsburgh drivers, Albert Schwartz, 27, and Margaret Naser, 27, were arrested by patrolmen for driving 65 miles per hour. Each posted $15 bond at the police station and indicated their intention of forfeiting.

New Pastor Here

Dr. Scott

Dr. James Alexander Scott, formerly pastor of the Methodist church in Norwalk, conducted his first service in his new pastorate at the Salem church yesterday.

Dr. Scott, who exchanged pulpits with Rev. Carl Asmus, will move into the Methodist parsonage, S. Lincoln ave., on Thursday. Dr. Scott was educated in Glasgow, Scotland, and also has held charges at Baldwin-Wallace college and Mt. Union college. He has been the Methodist minister at Norwalk for the last nine years.

REDS RAP AT MINSK GATES

Cut Germans Escape As New Column Drives Toward Wilno

MOSCOW, July 3.—Soviet tanks and cavalry struck within 10 miles of Minsk today, and another column carving deep beyond that city hammered within 65 miles of Wilno, which is only 100 miles from East Prussia.

Pounding at the front gates of Minsk, Red army men captured Sloboda, 12½ miles to the northeast, and then pushed to within 10 miles of the White Russian capital.

But by-passing columns already were sweeping around the city on the northwest and southwest, cutting the Germans' escape railways to Dillno and to Brest-Litovsk.

The rush on the northwest posed a threat to Wilno, former polish city just 15 miles from the old Lithuanian border. This drive captured Wilejka, 65 miles due east of Wilno, and 46 miles northwest of Minsk.

The wall erected by the Nazis in front of the Baltic republics and Poland began to feel the pressure of the advancing Red army today as German forces reeled backward in White Russia in a retreat which Russian field dispatches described as a wholesale rout.

In almost every sector, the Russians said, German commanders appeared unable to break the onrushing tide of Soviet tanks, cavalry and infantry advancing relentlessly under an air cover that grows daily in strength.

(The British radio today quoted German broadcasts as saying the Red army had entered Polotsk, about 65 miles west of Vitebsk on the White Russian front and that violent street fighting now was under way there.)

There were continued signs of indecision on the part of Nazi leaders as well as lack of contact between enemy divisions deployed along the front, front dispatches declared.

By no stretch of the imagination, one Soviet correspondent said, can the collapse of German resistance be called a "planned retreat" or even a systematic withdrawal.

40-MILE WIDE ATTACK OPENS DESPITE RAIN

First Army Fights Down Cherbourg Peninsula Toward Nazi Fortress

BULLETIN
SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, July 3.—The American First army struck south along a 40-mile front on Cherbourg peninsula today, smashing forward up to 2½ miles in the opening hours of a savage attack.

By WES GALLAGHER
SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Allied Expeditionary Force, July 3.—In a swift reversal down the Cherbourg peninsula, Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley's American first army at dawn today opened a 40-mile wide attack toward the German stronghold of LaHaye DuPuits.

Doughboys fought forward on mud-bogged fields under a heavy artillery barrage.

The assault jumped off near the west coast of the peninsula, from the line flung across it just two weeks ago that sealed off the upper half of the land neck.

A front dispatch said the drive pushed from the area below Barneville-Sur-Mer on the coast east to St. Sauveur Le Vicomte. The American line dips below and between these towns to St. Lo Dourville.

The assault opened after local advances which supreme headquarters said had won favorable "jump-off" positions, south of St. Lo Dourville. The doughboys also had pressed toward LaHaye DuPuits, six miles southeast of St. Lo Dourville.

Supported By Artillery
The American infantrymen were supported by heavy artillery including some of the most powerful guns yet used in the French campaign, but rain and cloudy skies hampered Allied aerial aid.

Even as this assault thrust forward on the Allied right flank, other Americans maintained pressure against the big road town of St. Lo toward the center of the Normandy front, and the British held firm southwest of Caen on the eastern flank. There were indications that Field Marshal Rommel was regrouping his forces there—numbering 11 divisions—after being beaten back in 25 thrusts against the British wedge across the Odon river.

The new offensive came after Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley, commanding the American first army in Normandy, hailed the Cherbourg victory as "an indication to the enemy as to what he can expect from now on to the end."

German salients thrusting into American lines near St. Lo Dourville were wiped out, and the Americans advanced short distances toward LaHaye DuPuits, rail and highway junction, seizing high ground which was described by Supreme headquarters as probably "good jump-off spots" for an eventual attack toward the south.

West of Caumont Bradley lashed out with similar local attacks with the same object in mind. This sector is roughly 17 air miles south.

E. A. ERICKSON, 38, KILLED IN CRASH

WERE STILL FIGHTING

Americans did their first fighting for independence with the odds against them. But they won—and what they won was vastly more than a war. They won the right to believe in their principles, right, or wrong, or 50-50.

This is what we celebrate on Independence day, every Independence day. There have been years—and we remember them fondly—when we celebrated it by loading the family in the car and taking to the highways by the millions for a game of dogdom. The results made a statistical horror story in the next day's papers.

We have shot off firecrackers, hung up flags, gone on picnics, listened to Fourth of July orators and spent the day at summer resorts. We have gone to ball games, marched in parades, participated in monster mass meetings and sometimes we have just sat still and listened to our arteries harden. When we thought about independence at all, we thought about it in personal terms; we were glad we could do what we wanted to do.

This year, the last several years and probably the next several years, no one could forget that independence again exists in one of its dynamic intervals—the way it was in 1776. It is no longer something that is, but something that takes effort to create. Independence has been challenged. We are fighting again for the thing our forefathers gave us the right to believe in and fight for. The circumstances are different. The odds are on our side this time. But it's the same fight. If it stops, unless the challenge stops too, the Fourth of July will be just another date on the calendar.

REPORTING ON THE HOME FRONT

The arrangement whereby Gen. Marshall, Admiral King and Gen. Arnold, reporting to President Roosevelt on progress of the invasion in Europe, have made an appraisal of the public state of mind here at home is curious. The three military leaders only recently have returned from abroad.

It is particularly curious insofar as it embodies a generalization, by implication at least, that the people's state of mind is not up to the requirements of the great project in progress in Europe. Yet, the nation's production made the project possible. Have the people changed?

If this is true—if this is what the government officially believes—it is impossible to believe that these three military leaders should be assigned the task of announcing it. Certainly that is a responsibility that would be acquired more fittingly and more forcefully by the chief executive.

On the other hand, if the three men included in the report made it wholly of their own volition, which would mean that Mr. Roosevelt, himself, first had word of it when he read the report, the whole thing then becomes a question of the sources and extent of their information. If President Roosevelt is satisfied that his military leaders know what they are talking about, he must back them up immediately. Clearly, it is not the job of the men who are fighting the war to take responsibility for the home front, too.

There is evidence—there always is—that many civilians are not taking their war responsibilities as seriously as they should. But to generalize on the evidence is to insult civilians who are taking the war as seriously as they know how. It is to scold all the people for the defects of those who don't measure up. There has been a great deal of that sort of thing since Pearl Harbor, most of it under Washington datelines and much of it coming from sources equally remote from the people who are the backbone of the nation's war effort.

CASUALTIES ON SAIPAN

The navy's first release of casualty figures from the operation on Saipan confirms previous descriptions comparing it to the invasion at Tarawa. The figures also may be compared with those for the first 11 days on the Normandy beachhead.

With a fraction of the manpower used in Normandy, the operation at Saipan claimed more than a third as many dead and close to two thirds as many wounded in the same number of days. The Japanese obviously were as well prepared, relative to the small area they were defending, as the Germans were in Europe at the point of invasion. When it is remembered further that Tarawa claimed at least 3,000 dead, within a few hundred of the total announced for the Normandy beachhead after 11 days, the grimness of the war in the Pacific is plainly evident.

It has become habitual recently to assume that the outcome there may be taken for granted because the outcome in Europe is being taken for granted, but casualty figures for such operations as Tarawa and Saipan demand that something else must be taken for granted too—the terrible price the Japanese will be able to exact for the defeat they are going to sustain.

FINLAND'S BAFFLING LOGIC

Finland cannot be blamed for believing Russia is the most serious threat to its security. It cannot be blamed for failing to drop out of the war as a concession to Allied convenience in waging the war. It cannot even be blamed for apparently moving closer to Germany in resistance to Allied demands—not Finland as a whole. Undoubtedly, Finland as a whole has no more to say about its official decisions at this point than any other nation as a whole has to say about tricky moves in the cutthroat game of power politics.

Finland's official logic is, of course, baffling, because it starts with the premise that there is security in a complete military alliance with Germany. The Finnish government, in other words, has gone beyond the point of realism about the country's own security toward the point of ideological sympathy with the German cause. It is sacrificing a proud people to Hitlerism. Under the circumstances, the severance of diplomatic relations, announced in Washington, is inevitable, whatever may prove to be the underlying reasons when diplomatic secrets are finally disclosed sometime in the future. It goes without saying, of course, that Finland's decision is a rebuff to the Allies, which have yet to score a clean-out diplomatic decision at the expense of Herr von Ribbentrop's busy organization.

THE STARS SAY:

For Tuesday, July 4

THE STELLAR influences for this day accentuate the possibility of a concentration of the energies and faculties largely on the pursuit of pleasure. Demonstrations of patriotism and democracy may be expected to run riot, with noisy celebrations and pyrotechnic display. In more restrained relations there is need of safeguarding the health, keeping alert to intrigues in the realm of the romantic. Adhere strictly to the conventions in writings, actions and general behavior.

Those whose birthday it is may look forward to a very active and enterprising year, in which propositions and objectives of major importance and worthwhile and lasting security may materialize. Influential persons may be disposed to lend a friendly hand, the social or sentimental factors being significant. In all arrangements be wary as to loopholes for intrigue or collusion. However, there may be much pleasure, festivity and celebration with enhanced prestige and popularity.

A child born on this day should be capable and ambitious, with talents and personal prestige for attaining its objectives, although it may be friendly, sympathetic and emotional.

FIGHTING OLD TIMERS

WASHINGTON—Why the "old folks" in this war effort have been neglected I don't know. They're doing a magnificent job. Men and women between the 60's and 70's—most of them retired on pensions—are making a big contribution to industrial labor.

After a trip across the country and talking to scores of these old-timers, I checked with the Department of Labor on statistics. Youth in wartime labor has been given plenty of attention; the oldsters little. Actually, the Labor department says, there normally are around 2,000,000 persons over 65 in the labor force. Now there are half a million more than that.

These half-million can be divided into two classes—those who want jobs and now find they can get them—and those who are just willing to help out. The second category is by far the larger. Labor officials here estimate that around 350,000 persons over 65 have returned to work solely for patriotic reasons. The contribution they are making deserves more than passing notice. I have talked to many Pullman and train conductors who have returned from retirement just to help out. What they suffer in 20-hour days and the bodyskatings that wartime roadbeds subject them to is nothing short of brutal.

This is one industry. There are hundreds of them. There are grandmothers and grandfathers who are riveters, truck drivers, mechanics and other heavy-duty laborers. They also are inspectors, welders, seamstresses and seamstresses. They are employed in detailed work that takes the patience of Job and the eye of an eagle.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

First Aid Rules in Drowning Cases

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
AS REPORTED yesterday in this column, there were 307 deaths in the United States occurring last

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Fourth of July, most of them traffic accidents, but about 25 of them were deaths from drowning.

This emphasizes the responsibility every citizen or potential bystander has to learn the fundamental principles of the treatment of threatened death from drowning.

The essential features of such treatment can be stated very simply.

Death from drowning is due to cessation of breathing.

The treatment is to institute artificial respiration as soon as possible and to keep it up for at least an hour, or until natural breathing is established.

Popular Fallacies

Some popular fallacies about drowning are:

1. That it is useless to resuscitate a person who has been immersed in water more than five minutes. There are cases of record where persons have been submerged more than half an hour and still live.

2. That it is important to get the water out of the lungs and stomach. The old rolling over a barrel technique. It is not the amount of water in the lungs that causes the drowning victim to stop breathing. It is the shock of the impact of water, even a small amount, especially cold water, sucked into the lungs. This impact causes a reflex paralysis of the respiratory center.

3. The lungs do not have to be water-logged. And the water in the stomach doesn't make any difference at all. Of course since in the proper method of performing artificial respiration the victim is first placed face downward, it is just as well to start proceedings by lifting him up by the waist and allow the water to run out of the nose, pharynx and bronchial tubes, but do not waste a lot of time over this.

4. Keep patient warm.

5. To avoid strain on the heart, when patient revives he should be kept lying down and not allowed to stand or sit up.

6. Artificial respiration should be carried on at the nearest possible point where the patient received his injuries.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetics," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

CHAPTER TEN

Ellery found Mrs. Haight struggling with an armful of books, trying to pick up more from disorderly stacks on the floor. She paused while Pat explained, "Nora's turned the second bedroom upstairs into a study for Jim." Then Nora glided upstairs.

Ellery was examining titles on the half-filled bookshelves when Nora came down for more books. "Where's Jim?" asked Ellery.

"In the bank," said Nora. "An important directors' meeting—"

Ellery then took a book off the top of the pile in her arms, and another.

"Pat cried: 'Oh look! Letters!'"

One of the volumes which had fallen from Nora's arms was over-sized and bound in tan cloth. From among its leaves some envelopes had tumbled.

Nora picked them up curiously. They were not sealed.

"Oh, three poky old envelopes," said Pat.

But Nora frowned. "There's something inside each one, Pat. These are Jim's books. I wonder if..."

She removed a single sheet of folded notepaper from one of the envelopes and spread it smooth, reading slowly to herself.

Suddenly, Nora said faintly: "I don't understand—" and returned the sheet to its envelope. She took a similar sheet from the second envelope, read it, returned it to its envelope; likewise, with the third. And as she did so her cheeks were the color of wet sand. Pat and Ellery glanced at each other, puzzled.

"Boo!"

Nora whirled, shrieking. In the doorway crouched a man wearing a papier-mache mask; his fingers were curled before his fantastic face, opening and closing hungrily. Nora's eyes turned up until they met his whites. And then she crumpled, still clutching the three envelopes.

"Nora!" Jim ripped off the Halloween mask. "Nora, I didn't mean—" He broke off and seized her limp figure, scooped her up, half-ran up the stairs with her.

"It's only a faint," said Ellery, as Pat dashed into the kitchen. "She'll be all right, Patty."

Pat came stumbling back with a glass of water. Ellery took it from her and sped up the stairs with the glass, Pat trailing on his heels.

They found Nora on her bed, in hysterics, while Jim chafed her hands and groaned self-abasements.

"Excuse me," said Ellery. He put the glass to Nora's lips. She drank the water, choking. Then she sank back on the pillow, covering her face with her palms. "Go—go away," she sobbed. "Please leave me alone. Please!"

"They'll go," said Jim. "Leave us alone."

"You go, too," Nora murmured. Jim gaped at her. Pat steered him out. Ellery shut the bedroom door, frowning, and they went downstairs.

Jim made for the liquor cabinet, poured himself a stiff drink, and tossed it down with one motion.

"You know how nervous Nora is," said Pat disapprovingly. "If you hadn't had too much to drink tonight—"

Jim was sullen. "Who's tight? Don't you go telling Nora I've been drinking! Understood?"

"Yes, Jim," replied Pat. They waited. Jim shuffled around. Ellery whistled a noiseless tune.

Suddenly Nora appeared.

"Feeling better?" cried Pat.

"Worlds," Nora came downstairs smiling. "Please forgive me, Mr. Smith. It was just being scared all of a sudden."

Jim seized her in his arms. "Oh, Nora—"

"Forget it, dear," laughed his wife.

There was no sign of the three envelopes.

When Jim and Nora came up on the porch after dinner, Nora was quite gay.

"Pat told me about that scare from the mask, Jim Haight," said

Hermey. Nora dearest, you're sure you're all right?"

"Of course, Mother. All this fuss over a trifle!"

John F. was studying his son-in-law in a puzzled way. Jim seemed a little sheepish; he grinned vaguely.

"Where's Carter, Pat?" demanded Hermey. "Wasn't he supposed to go with us to Town Hall tonight?"

"I've a headache, Muth. I phoned Carter to say I was going to bed. Night!" Pat went quickly into the house.

"Come along, Smith," said John F. "There's a good speaker—one of those war correspondents."

"Thanks, Mr. Wright, but I've some work on my novel. Have a nice time!"

When Jim's new car rolled off down the Hill, Ellery Queen stepped off the Wright porch and, by the light of the pumpkin moon, noiselessly crossed the lawn. He circled Nora's house once, inspecting the windows. All dark. Then Alberta had already left—Thursday night was her night off.

Ellery with mind on those mysterious letters opened the kitchen door with a skeleton key, locked it behind him and, using his flashlight sparingly, made his way through the hall to the living room. The detective-author climbed the stairs making no sound. At the landing, he paused, frowning. There was a luminous line under Nora's bedroom door!

Ellery listened intently. Inside drawers were being pulled open and pushed shut. A thief? Another Halloween prank?

Gripping the flashlight like a club, Ellery suddenly kicked the door open.

Miss Patricia Wright screamed as she sprang from her stooped position over the lowest drawer of Nora's vanity.

"Hello," said Mr. Queen affably. "You!" gasped Pat. "I thought I'd die. Then she blushed under his glance. 'At least I have an excuse! I'm her sister. But you... you're just a plain snoot, Mr. Ellery Queen!'"

Ellery's jaw wagged. "So you detected me," he said admiringly. "You've known me all along."

"Of course," retorted Pat. "I heard you lecture at college once on

The Place of the Detective Story in Contemporary Civilization. Very pompous it was, too."

"Wellesley?"

"Sarah Lawrence. I thought at the time you were handsome. Sic transit gloria. Don't look so concerned. I shan't give your precious incognito away."

Mr. Queen kissed her.

"Mmm," murmured Pat. "Not bad. But inopportune... Some other time, Ellery, those letters—you're the only one I can confide in. Muth and Pop would worry themselves sick—"

"And Prosecuting Attorney Bradford?" suggested Mr. Queen dryly.

"Cart," said Miss Wright, flushing. "Is... well, I just wouldn't want Cart to know anything's wrong—if it is," she added quickly. "I'm not sure anything is."

"Not sure?"

"Yes, but," said Pat with a puzzled look. "Why didn't Nora say what was in those letters? Why did she come back to the living room tonight without them? Why did she chase us all out of her bedroom? Ellery, I'm... scared."

Mr. Queen squeezed her cold hands. "Let's look for them."

He found them in one of Nora's hatboxes on the shelf of a closet. The three envelopes had been tucked between the tissue paper and the floor of the box beneath a little flowered hat with a saucy veil.

"Clumsy technique!" murmured Mr. Queen.

"Poor Nor," said Pat. Her lips were pale. "Let me see!" Ellery handed her the three letters.

In the upper right-hand corner of each envelope, where a stamp should have been, appeared a date written in red crayon.

Pat frowned. Ellery took the envelopes from her and arranged them in chronological order, according to the crayoned dates. The dates were: 11/28, 12/25, and 1/1.

"And all three," mused Pat, "are addressed to 'Miss Rosemary Haight.' She's Jim's only sister. We've never met her. But it's queer there's no street or city address..."

"Not necessarily," said Ellery, his brows together. "The queerest lies in the use of the crayon."

"Oh, Jim always used a thin red crayon instead of a pencil—it's a habit of his."

"Then his sister's name on these envelopes is in Jim's handwriting?"

"Yes. I'd recognize this scrawl of Jim's anywhere. For Pete's sake, Ellery, what's in them?"

June temperature which averaged 69.7 degrees, with a range of 60 degrees from the minimum of 38 on the 8th to the maximum of 98 on the 28th, was above normal, County Weather Observer L. H. Copeland's monthly report.

And with all of the hail, rain and wind storms during the month rainfall was below normal.

If it's any consolation, you may recall that June, 1943, was even hotter. In fact its average temperature of 72.4 made it the warmest June since records have been kept for 51 years.

Normal temperature for the month is 66.1, just 3.6 degrees less than last month. Rainfall last month totaled 2.53 inches, compared with a normal of 4.23 inches for June.

The year is now ahead 1650 degrees in temperature and 1.34 inches short in precipitation, Copeland reports. More rain would be beneficial to all vegetation, he says.

There was 70 per cent sunshine last month, with 13 clear days, 16 partly cloudy and one cloudy. At least 61 of an inch of rain fell on ten days.

Coolest June was in 1916 with 60.8 degrees average; wettest in 1924 with 8.25 inches of rainfall; driest in 1913 with only .72 of an inch rainfall.

Copeland says many corn fields are small due to late planting but many are more than knee high. The oats crop will be a disappointment, he adds.

A bumper hay crop is in the making and an excellent wheat crop is ready for the reaper much of it already having been cut.

Thirteen tables were in play at the card party given by the Pythian Sisters Tuesday evening. Bridge prizes were awarded to Mrs. Walter Seederly of Salem and Roy Dyke of Greenford; "500" prizes to Miss Clara Weikart and Fred Girard and euchre prizes to Mrs. Margaret Spear and Clark McCowan. Another party will be held in two weeks.

Mrs. Leslie Tingle was hostess to members of the South Side "500" club at her home Thursday evening. Honors were awarded to Mrs. Albert Ritchie, Mrs. Loran Weikart and Mrs. Elmer Bowers. The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Bowers.

Mrs. Don Indermille underwent an operation for appendicitis at Salem City Hospital Wednesday.

Philip Herman and daughter, Mrs. Ray Lapp of Lorain, spent a few days last week in the home of his brother, Edward Herman and family.

Pfc. Don Davis of the Marines, stationed at Cherry Point, N. C., was a weekend visitor with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Davis.

Mrs. Fred Girard entertained the Fortnightly club members at her home Thursday evening. Mrs. Charles Homan of Salem was a guest. Card prizes were awarded to Mrs. C. R. Taylor, Mrs. H. L. McNeal and Mrs. William Fallow. Mrs. L. J. Davis will be the next hostess.

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. William Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Weikart that their sons, Pvt. Elwood Smith and Pvt. William Weikart, have arrived safely in England.

Mrs. Clarence Baker is spending a few days in the home of George Chantry at Sharon, Pa.

Salona Sprays Are Best To Kill Garden Insects

Gardeners, who planted early, are now enjoying the fresh vegetables, at their best, garden fresh with all the vitamins and minerals that are lost to some extent, at least, if not consumed at once.

The big battle of beating the worms, and insects is easy to win if the gardener will consult with the Salona Supply Co., hardware department who know just what spray or dust to sell you for any particular pest problem that may be attacking your garden. As scarce as many of these insecticides are the Salona Supply Co. is stockpiled with each needed variety and the equipment, such as sprayers and dusters.

Keep Your Car Checked Periodically At Wiggers

If ever an automobile suffers its during extreme temperatures. Hot weather causes many tire blowouts, the cooling system, so necessary to motor efficiency must be in perfect condition or serious trouble will result. Batteries need extra attention.

Unless you are an auto mechanic it would be good judgment to let such a man check your car for the conditions necessary for dependable hot weather driving.

Pete Wiggers operates two super service stations, on N. and S. Ellsworth ave., with equipment necessary to make the tests that will determine the exact efficiency of your car. If something is wrong it certainly is much cheaper to

Plan Now To Stock Your Coal Bins For Winter

Almost everyone realizes how fortunate we were last winter in being able to keep supplied with coal for home heating. However, this winter will bring hardships unless a greater number of families stock their fuel bins between now and cold weather.

There are several reasons why this winter will likely be more critical. First, many of the younger miners are now in the service. This same condition exists among the railroad men and many railroad cars that were pressed into service a year ago are beyond possible service now.

The management at the Citizens Ice & Coal Co. is doing everything possible to cooperate with their hundreds of customers in their plans for summer coal deliveries. Arrange for deliveries as soon as possible.

Old Reliable Ice Cream Makes Ideal Picnic Dish

Tomorrow many will be out along some river or lake shore enjoying the brief but welcome Fourth of July vacation. Picnic lunches will be packed and most baskets will be supplemented with a container of ice cream.

The Old Reliable dairy has most any flavor of ice cream and leas, frozen hard, that will keep well and you can get any quantity of crushed ice at the Citizens Ice Co.'s plant for packing.

If you will phone the Old Reliable Dairy tonight they will have your ice cream ready at any time you specify.

"And then there were none..."

There were 4 of them... I came out of the sun and made a pass at their No. 4 man, slashing him from stem to stern... and then there were three...

The first two followed me around. I did a half roll and ended up on the tail of their No. 3. He tried a reverse to get on my tail, but he went down from a single burst... and then there were two...

I pulled up sharp and threw the ship into full throttle and full blowers. I was literally hanging by those props in a vertical climb. I had to think fast...

Just as they opened fire, I did a right wing-over, taking my punishment on the right nacelle. They shot under me, blazing away like merry hell...

"Using the full thrust of that dive, I pulled her into a vertical climb and came up under one of them, getting a long squirt at his gas tanks. He went into a cloud—smoking badly. That was my probable—no time to confirm it..."

"And then there was one... and he was heading for home. Just one thing would give me a crack at him—an inverted roll. It meant reversing the controls, and I wasn't sure they hadn't been shot. 'Banzi to you,' I said. 'Here goes!' And then there were none."

THE action shown here speaks louder than words about the superb skill and courage of an American flyer... the performance of an American plane... and the super-fuel which helped to make that performance possible.

Of personal pride to the men and women of Soho is the part which they have played in helping to give that flyer an extra margin of performance upon which his safety constantly depends.

For today, all types of American combat planes use fuel which is "souped up" with EX-TANES.

These EX-TANES are extremely powerful petroleum molecules—so powerful that a few cups added to a gallon of aviation gasoline transform it into the world's highest grade fighting fuel.

So powerful that fuel energized with EX-TANES helps our pursuit planes to fly faster, higher and nearly 50% farther.

Today, the men and women of Soho are making extra power for victory... tomorrow they will make better gasolines for you... THE STANDARD OIL CO. (OHIO)

Theater Manager Aids Spar Recruiting Drive

Yeoman Mary B. Coolen, district SPAR recruiting representative announced today that N. I. Walken State theater manager has been named permanent recruiter for Salem and vicinity.

Yeoman Coolen said Walken will be able to supply information to women interested in joining the women's branch of the Coast Guard as well as application blanks for enlistment.

TIRED OF LENDING?

You don't know what being tired is!

Out on the firing lines they know what being tired is . . . and being wounded and in pain, too. But one thing they know also—that Now, right now, the climax of their struggle is nearing and that it's up to them to find the last ounce of will to stay with it, to put it over in this year of decision!

So—don't you tire now of lending more during this Fifth War Loan Drive! It's really so little you're asked for—just to lend more money to your country. You've responded before—this time DOUBLE the Bonds You Bought Before! For this is the most urgent, the most vitally important War Bond drive to date. So put $100, $200, $500 into extra War Bonds—and do it today.

Back the Attack!—BUY MORE THAN BEFORE

And Here Are 5 MORE Reasons for Buying EXTRA Bonds in the 5th!

1. War Bonds are the best, the safest investment in the world!
2. War Bonds return you $4 for every $3 in 10 years.
3. War Bonds help keep prices down.
4. War Bonds will help to win the peace by increasing purchasing power after the war.
5. War Bonds mean education for your children, security for you, funds for your retirement.

Salem Athletics Defeated By Carrollton Merchants, 9 To 6

HEAVY HITTING MARKS BATTLE AT PLACENTIA

Errors Help Lakers Take Early Lead; Smith Hits Two Home Runs

Salem Athletics dropped a 9 to 6 decision to the hard-hitting Carrollton Merchants on the Lake Placid field Sunday afternoon.

The lake team scored three times in the first inning, aided by Salem errors, and never headed. With a score 3-2 against them, the Athletics scored four runs in the last three innings to one for Carrollton, but could not overcome the early lead gained by the latter.

Salem had the bases loaded in the first inning but failed to score because of a fast double play. Smith, on the mound for the Athletics, lasted the full game, although he was hit freely in the early innings. He contributed two home runs, but no one was on base either time.

Vanen went to the mound for Carrollton as the game opened but retired in the fourth in favor of Myers after Salem had scored twice in the third inning.

Books Several Games

Manager Walter Melinger and C. S. Chisholm, backer of the hardball team, were unable to book a game for the fourth, but they have listed several games for the month.

The Athletics will play at the Ravenna Arsenal grounds at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday and the Arsenal team will come here for a return game Wednesday, July 12.

Next Sunday Salem plays another game with the Columbiana team at Firestone park and these teams will meet for a third time on the Salem field Wednesday, July 19.

Salem goes to Warren Sunday, July 16, to meet the Warren Ramblers, who will come to Salem for a game Wednesday, July 26.

The Canton Spikers club team will play here Sunday, July 23.

Dewey Gets Orders From Golf Pro and Seems to Like Them

(By Associated Press)
DANBURY, Conn., July 3.—When George Ferrier, veteran golf pro at the Ridgewood Country club here, heard Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican presidential nominee, declare in his acceptance speech that he takes orders from no man, Ferrier confessed today he found himself smiling.

For some six years now, Ferrier has been ordering the New York state Governor around on the golf course, and says the pro, "The Governor not only takes orders but apparently likes to do so. He's a great sport."

Started As D. A.
Dewey came to Ferrier as a beginner while he was district attorney in New York and tackled golf with the methodical precision of a good trial lawyer. His ambition, he told the pro, was to "break 100," a goal he has accomplished.

"Mr. Dewey," says the 53-year-old golf instructor who qualified for the National Open several times in the 1920's, "follows every order closely, but like a district attorney, wants to know why he has to do it my way."

"He scores in the low 90's and will do even better when he controls his wood shots."

Benefit Polo Game At Alliance Is Scheduled

ALLIANCE, July 3.—With approximately $3,000 already received from advance ticket sales and contributions, success of the Fairmount Children's Home band benefit polo game here tomorrow is assured.

The Alliance polo club will entertain the Darlington, (Pa.), malleteers on the State Armory field. Every dollar received will go into the band fund, since Owen Lewis, of the Alliance Mfg. Co., will defray all expenses.

The Fairmount band will present a musical program as an added feature.

China Ranks Best In Loop Statistics As Second Round Closes; Ehrhart Top Hitter

CLASS A	Season's Records	Won	Lost	Pct.
China	13	0	1000
Recreation	8	4	667
Sheens	8	5	615
Mullins	4	8	333
Demings	3	9	250
Paxsons	3	10	231
Jims	1	5	167

Statistical computations after the close of the second round prove that the Salem China team, besides the fact it is unbeaten in 13 games, has the best all-around record of any outfit in the Class A loop.

From a standpoint of batting, the Potters are on top in number of men in the over-two-hundred group and has the league's leading hitter, Harry Ehrhart, who is pounding them out at a 435 tempo. Six China batters, who have competed in at least 10 games are currently rated at better than a .200 average.

There are three other squads close to the league leaders in batting, the Recreation, Mullins and Sheens each having five men among the top 33 hitters.

Ritchie Top Hurler
From a pitching power viewpoint, the Potters' 13 straight wins place Dale Ritchie on top as a hurler, and from a statistical standpoint not considering the number of wins and losses, the China hurler still leads all comers. Next best in record is Francis Lanney, who has chalked up four one-hit games, a no-hitter and has a hit game average of 3.2.

Lanney, Sheen's hurler, has worked under more difficult conditions than Ritchie, however, as his squad has posted 30 errors this season while the China boasts one with only 14 errors in 13 games.

Ritchie has allowed 41 hits and 17 runs and his mates have committed 14 errors, as compared to 24 runs, 42 hits and 30 errors on Sheens side of the ledger.

Demings put in a serious bid to throw himself into the upper class by using a new and talented hurler, Kenny Brudery, who chalked up three wins in the five games he twirled this round. Until Brudery came along, Demings had dropped seven straight contests.

Ehrhart Heads Batters
Batting averages this time, computed from the records of those players who have hit 200 or better and who had participated in at least 10 games this season, show Harry Ehrhart still leading the league, with Charlie Huffer in second spot. Ehrhart has a .435 average, Huffer a .429 and in third spot, Don Beattie, News shortstop, with .384.

Jim's players, who have been in the league for only six games, are rated in the batting standings on a basis of four-game participation.

SPORT CHATTER

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, July 3.—Major "Cac" Hubbard, former Denver university coach who became a member of the football rules committee just before he entered the Army, agrees with Col. Bill Bingham that the committee shouldn't meet again until after the war, but he has some very definite ideas as to what should be done then.

Besides favoring forward passing from anywhere behind the scrimmage line and "restoring" the kickoff, Maj. Hubbard wants a lighter penalty when a lateral is intended. Speaking from the Sioux Falls, S. D., Army Air field, Cac urges establishment of one set of rules for high school, college and pro football.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR
Bill Reddy, Syracuse, N. Y., Herold-Journal: "Ossie Solem (Syracuse coach) will leave no stone unturned in an effort to come up with a stout team for that opener against Cornell. He wasn't available for comment last night, possibly being busy turning stones in the hope that he might find a halfback under a likely-looking boulder."

MONDAY MATINEE
The Chattanooga Lookouts played doubleheaders at home before crowds of 423 and 650, but 14,000 turned out for a Bond rally ball game against the Camp Campbell team... Tony Palazolo, who handled fighters in the east when Jacobs beach wasn't even a sandspit, is coming back in a few weeks with Jimmy Doyle, Los Angeles lightweight... Walt Kennedy, Notre Dame's drum beater, is going to Rochester, Minn., to find out what's causing his migraine headaches. Hope it's nothing that can't be cured by finding another Bertelli.

HUGHSON WINS NO. 12 WITH SHUT-OUT AGAINST ST. LOUIS

Red Sox Cop Doubleheader From League - Leaders, Now 1 1/2 Games from Top

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
Cecil (Tex) Hughson, towering Texan twirler of the Boston Red Sox, is travelling at a faster pace than he did in his record-breaking year of 1942 when he won 22 and lost six to lead American league pitchers.

The 6-03 righthanded ace won his 12th victory of the season yesterday, more than any American league hurler, blanking the league leading St. Louis Browns with six hits to give the Red Sox a 1-0 triumph in the opener of a twin-bill. The Red Sox also won the nightcap, 3-2, in 11 innings to climb to within a game and a half of first place.

Cards Win Two
The St. Louis Cardinals, leaders in the National league, won two games from Brooklyn to extend the straight, losing streak to six straight, their longest of the season. The Cards won the first 2-1 in 14 innings on Johnny Hopp's single with the bases full. The Redbirds also took the second, 4-2.

A crowd of 35,984 saw the Chicago White Sox and the New York Yankees divide their twin-bill. The White Sox won the first 7-3, scoring four runs in the 10th, aided by Oscar Grimes' three errors. A wild throw by Catcher Vince Castino in an attempt to double up Tuck Stainback for the third out allowed Bud Metheny to scamper home with the winning run in the ninth of the finale for a 7-6 Yankee victory.

Giants and Reds Split
Johnny Allen pitched a three-hitter for the first Giant shutout of the season 3-0, as New York and Cincinnati split even. Rookie Casimir Kostany won his third straight for the Reds in the opener, 4-1.

Detroit and Philadelphia swapped shutouts. The Tigers took the first 8-0, and the Athletics the nightcap, 2-0.

The Chicago Cubs and Philadelphia Phillies got an even break in their two games, Chicago winning the first 8-1, and the Phillies taking the second, 4-2.

Nate Andrews pitched the Boston Braves to a 4-1 victory over Pittsburgh in the first game, but the second was halted by Pennsylvania's 6:50 curfew after eight innings, with the score tied at 5-5.

Plans Set For Horse Show

Big July 4 Event To Be Held At Lisbon Fairgrounds at 1:30

Salem's fourth annual horse show—sponsored by the Salem Polo club and the Pine Hollow Riding academy—will entertain district horse enthusiasts at the Lisbon fairgrounds at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow and promises to be an extra-ordinarily large affair.

J. Brooke Votaw, who is handling entries for the event, said today that entries have gone far beyond expectations and horses have been entered from distant districts and from other shows in the southeastern section of the state.

Acting as judge this season will be Harry Fitzpatrick, widely known polo star from the Hunting Valley polo club in Cleveland. Fitzpatrick has acted in judging capacity here before and is reputed to be one of the best horsemen in this section.

Besides the regular class competitions originally scheduled for the show, a new group—the Tennessee Walking horse class—will be on the list of 20-odd events.

Chairmen of the arrangements are Walter Penningel and E. L. Grate, assisted by members of the Polo club and the riding academy staff.

Musical entertainment will come from the Canfield band, a summer organization which draws its membership from the Canfield High school band. A parade of all horses entered will begin the show at 1:30, Penningel said.

The War Today

war does not know any such undertaking so broad in conception, so grandiose in scale and so masterly in execution. Since then he himself has inaugurated a land of offensive of such power that much the same thing can be said of it. The operations are different but each represents the peak of military strength.

The Red armies continue to rip the vitals out of Hitler's battle-line which is trying vainly to guard the historic "Baranowicz gap."

Minsk on to Warsaw and to Berlin. Napoleon marched his grand army through that gap to attack Moscow—and the little corporal's terrible defeat perches on Corporal Hitler's shoulder like a black bird of ill omen.

THE RUSSIANS have continued to extend about Minsk the circle which is rapidly garroting that great stronghold. All rail communication with the besieged city has been cut and the position of the huge German garrison of some 200,000 men is desperate.

Despite the catastrophe which is piling up about him in Russia, Hitler has been compelled to withdraw some troops to try to stem the invasion of Normandy. That shouts of lack of manpower. If the withdrawals continue, it will mean that the Russians will open fresh offensives against the weakened sectors. There's no direction in which Hitler can turn safely.

The capture of Cherbourg, with its great harbor facilities, opens the funnel through which the western Allies can pour a vast army to march against Berlin from the west. No trouble about reserves there!

With Cherbourg nailed down and the beachheads secure, it seems that it would take an upheaval of nature to oust the Allied forces from the peninsula. One other thing remains to make our route to Germany secure—that's the defeat of Marshal Rommel in the impending all-out German counter-attack in the strategic Caen region near the eastern end of the Allied line.

The Nazi marshal has been massing his troops and armor, and sparring continuously with his old adversary of the desert—Gen. Montgomery—for an opening. Tanks will play a big part, for the country is adapted to that type of warfare. We shall know soon how much strength the bragart of Berchtesgaden can muster to save his skin in Normandy.

DAVIS, RED CROSS CHAIRMAN, DEAD

(By Associated Press)
ALEXANDRIA, Va., July 3.—Funeral service will be held Wednesday at 10 a. m. EWT. for Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross.

Davis, a native of Tennessee who became a millionaire banker in Cuba by the time he was 35, and later was an American "ambassador at large" in efforts for disarmament and peace, died of a cerebral hemorrhage early yesterday at Hot Springs, Va.

He had gone to the resort to rest from heavy duties connected with the war-expansion of the Red Cross. He would have been 66 next month.

President Roosevelt termed his career one "of great and varied usefulness" and said "he will be long remembered for his services in aid of suffering mankind." Secretary of State Hull called him "an outstanding world statesman.... an intense patriot."

Soldier's Wife Killed

CLEVELAND, July 3.—Mrs. Clarence Klosterny, 26, wife of an army private stationed at Camp Gruber, Okla., was killed last night when struck by a New York Central freight train.

Her husband, on furlough, told police his wife left their home to take a walk last night.

mus and Rev. Jack Klein. Burial will be in the Wooddale cemetery near Hanoverton.

Friends may call at the Stark Memorial in Salem from 7 to 9 p. m. today.

204 Dead Already In Holiday Mishaps

(By Associated Press)
The nation's accidental deaths for the fourth of July holiday period reached 204 today.

Despite wartime restrictions and appeals for reduced travel, at least 87 persons died in traffic mishaps—more than from any other cause. Drownings took 54 lives and miscellaneous deaths 10.

Illinois lead all states with 20 deaths. California was second with 17, of which 11 were attributed to traffic.

Ohio reported five traffic deaths, four drownings and one miscellaneous fatality.

GERMANS CONTINUE ROBOT BOMB RAIDS

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, July 3.—After a lull of several hours which began shortly after midnight, the Germans resumed their rocket bomb attacks on Southern England early today and augmented these assaults with scattered raids by regular aircraft.

The German-controlled Paris radio identified Plymouth and Portsmouth as the principal targets on the robot blitz, and said both cities had suffered heavy damage.

First English reports said a large general store had been hit in one area and several adjoining buildings had been wrecked. A number of casualties was recorded in that area.

Shortly after daylight one flying bomb blasted a row of stores and dwellings in another area, also causing numerous casualties.

There was considerable speculation on what Prime Minister Churchill might have to say in the house of commons tomorrow. It is generally expected he will give a frank report on the flying bombs, coupled with a pointed reminder that the Germans will be duly brought to account for these indiscriminate attacks.

A German radio offer to cease the robot attacks if the Allies cease bombing Germany met only defiance here.

NAZI TROOPS

Madrid, said the Germans had thrown tanks and bombers as well as infantry into their drive against French patriots in the Dordogne region of southwestern France.

After two days of fighting, the Nazis were said to have recaptured Bergerac and advanced to St. Cyprien, where they freed 150 collaborators who have been held as prisoners in that town.

Repeating Magus was reported to have transferred their activities 50 miles south of Bergerac, taking over the rail junction at Armande and cutting the important Cahors-Bordeaux railroad line.

The German announced that gas, water and electric services cut off in Copenhagen since the start of the strike were expected to resume today, but announced no relaxation in the 10 p. m. to 5 a. m. curfew which has been a sore point with the Danes.

40-MILE WIDE

west of the British Odon river bridgehead.

Activity dwindled in the Caen sector, where Field Marshal Gen. Erwin Rommel appeared to be regrouping his seven Panzer and four infantry divisions which had taken a terrific mauling in three days of furious but futile attacks against the British. Indications were that Rommel was reading an all-out counter-attack against the British.

"We are ready," said one British officer.

Clouds so dense the airmen called them "ten-tenths" cloaked the entire bridgehead in Normandy. The weather was getting to be known as the worst for June and July in the past 40 years.

An Associated Press dispatch from Cherbourg said the American bag of prisoners had reached 40,000, which would indicate the total since D-Day had reached more than 55,000.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's superiority in artillery in the crew fighting smashed every attempt of the Germans to infiltrate into the Odon river bridgehead. The Nazis made 25 attacks in 72 hours, the latest shortly before dawn yesterday. A barrage from British heavy guns broke it up before it even reached infantry positions.

British patrols expanding the Caen salient found Bretteville, two miles south of Tassel Bretteville, unoccupied by the Germans, although heavily mined and booby-trapped.

Last night the London radio in a broadcast recorded by CBS declared "gigantic Allied landing operations" took place Sunday on the coast behind the British forces while armoured vehicles, tanks, troops and ammunition also were landed on the southeastern side of the Cherbourg peninsula.
